

Essay on My Teacher :

Long Essay on My Teacher

Teachers water us with the knowledge to grow the seed within us to become a fruitful plant. We learn silence from the talkative, toleration from the intolerant, and kindness from the unkind; yet, strange, we are ungrateful to those teachers. The teacher who is indeed wise does not bid you enter the house of his wisdom but rather leads you to the threshold of your mind. A teacher is not the one who lets you choose a path but he is the one who directs you in your path.

A teacher takes our hand, opens our minds, and touches our hearts. He/she teach us, guide us, encourage us, support us, inspire us for our overall well-being. They are mind engineers, life directors to light the way of students. A teacher not only concentrates on the academic development of the students but also on building the character, values, morals, etc., They are the reason behind a well-built nation.

My teacher is an amalgamation of talent, elegant, awesome, charming, helpful, efficient, and receptive. She is the second parent as she is concerned about us as a parent, She is a good friend as she supports us to lead our life, She is a role model by being a motivation she motivates us to reach great heights.

She shapes the student's futures beautifully. She feels proud to lead their students to the right path in life. She encourages and praises us for good doings and punishes us if we do wrong things. Today, we can differentiate the good and evil because of our teacher. She keeps their consistent efforts for shaping and making their pupil better individuals as the students are the future of the nation.

Qualities of a Good Teacher

Strong Communication: Along with effective teaching a good teacher must communicate with his/her people because communication is an effective tool to make the students overcome their fear.

Listen to Students: Good teachers always listen to students as if the teacher listens to students she can easily understand where they are and students also show their zeal to learn the lesson from the teacher.

Good adaptability: A teacher should adopt various teaching methods based upon the audience. It means she must understand the learning capabilities of the student.

Empathy: Teachers should focus not only on sharpening the academic life of a student but also on their individual life. By being empathetic she should understand what is going on in their lives and should guide them like a mother.

Friendly Attitude: Having a friendly attitude towards students makes you more approachable and this friendly attitude enhances enthusiasm in students to learn the lesson. A friendly attitude ensures two-way communication (student-teacher communication) as the students feel more comfortable to ask questions and it finally leads to a positive learning environment.

Patience: Being a teacher and managing multiple children is not an easy task. But like a good teacher, one must be patient because when it comes to learning different students display different levels of aptitude. As a role model, if the teacher shows impatience in front of the students it will lead to an atmosphere of negative learning. A teacher with patience has to adopt the various teaching methods because the learning capabilities and methods differ from one student to another.
