

Essay on Overpopulation :

Overpopulation is one of the unfortunate things that expose troubles to the people of the world. At present days the population of the world is running at a high rate and can't get controllable. The planet Earth is carrying huge people rather than the actual capacity of the people. Overpopulation is the cause of the distraction of environmental pollution and natural disasters. Similarly, the below essay on overpopulation has included all the needed information, impacts, and many others. Essay on overpopulation contains the reasons for the rapid increase, vast people and their needs, and many more.

Short Essay on Overpopulation

Overpopulation refers to an extension in the count of people rather than the limited count of living. As the world contains only 30% of land for the existence of human lives on earth. The enlargement of land is highly impossible on earth and within the available land hills, mountains, rivers, covers some amount of land area. The capacity of people to live freely with all human needs is only limited count. As the population is increasing day by day the needs of people, land, and many others were increasing. Overpopulation is becoming an issue because of the scarcity of needs and lands that arises in the lives of the people. As the count of people increasing water, food, oxygen, etc will also have demand. Besides overpopulation, there is a huge loss for environmental conditions. The hole in the ozone layer, increase sea level, melting of Antarctica and many other high-level losses are arising with overpopulation.

There are some Causes of Overpopulation are high birth rate, increase in life span, High level of illiteracy, improper mortality rate, and many others. These causes will have an impact on the lives of the humans that existed on the earth.

The problems or the impacts faced by humans due to overpopulation are poverty, unemployment, improper nutrition, increase in the cost of living, health issues, etc. Overpopulation in the world is due to the overpopulated countries of the world, these countries will have a high birth rate every year due to improper rules and laws. The overpopulated countries will have many problems like the economy, scarcity of natural resources, and many more. Overpopulation was not obtained within the year or months it was happening for a long time, so it will not get into control within the limited time. All the countries should come together to work on controlling the population around the world.

Long Essay on Overpopulation

Overpopulation is one of the undesirable issues in the present day of the world. Overpopulation refers to the over-limit of human beings that exists on earth. The Earth contains very less land space for the existence of living beings on earth. In the limited part of the land on earth, hills, rivers, forests, lakes occupy some areas of land. As with human beings, other living organisms need the land to exist their lives on earth as parallel. With the increase in population the demand for land and water also increasing as similarly.

Why overpopulation had become an issue? As the population increases the scarcity of natural resources and deforestation increases. With the increase of human beings, the need for transportation and other basic needs also increases. With the increase of population, development, and technology are also increasing to reduce the physical work of human beings. During the development, some of the activities cause harm to the environment. As the level of green on earth is decreasing which is leading to a decrease in the level of oxygen and tends to global warming. Because of global warming, there is an increase in temperature level and due to this, the melting of Antarctica increases the sea levels.

However, in all the ways the overpopulation will be the harm for human life to exist on Earth. The causes of overpopulation are increasing birth rate, enhancement of life spans, high illiteracy, improper rules for family planning, the need for youth in past, and many others. These causes are due to the improvement of technology and also depend on the present population. As medical technology is increasing the span of human beings increasing and now there is transplantation with the failure parts of the body.

Overpopulation has a high level of drawbacks like an increase in unemployment, depletion of the economy of the countries, scarcity of resources, improper nutrition, less education rate, the demand for cultivation, etc. There are many populated countries like China, India, America that don't look after the increase of population in their countries. India and China contain nearly 35% of the world population in their countries. There are a lot of health issues that occur and diseases will spread easily as the people live in a limited area with high density. The population density of the world per sq km is 15 people but in countries like Bangladesh, it is 1,252 people per sq km. By this, the countries have less hygiene and low immunity, and more health issues.

The conclusion of the Essay on overpopulation is the population can get into control by decreasing the birth rates and some strict rules. But to control the population is not a simple task and can't be done in a limited period. So all the countries come together and work for population control and conserve the natural resources for future generations. Governments of the countries should come together and frame the laws and rules for the controlling of population and save the environment. The reduction of the population is the only answer for many environmental problems and endangered species on earth.

Quotes on Overpopulation

The strongest witness is the vast population of the Earth to which we are a burden and she scarcely can provide for our needs.

The hungry world cannot be fed until and unless the growth of its resources and the growth of its population come into balance

We urgently need to either start increasing the size of our planet or stop increasing the size of our population.

The problem of the growing food shortage cannot be solved without in many cases a simultaneous effort to moderate population growth.

Overpopulation is perhaps the biggest problem facing us, and immigration is part of that problem. It has to be addressed.

The point of population stabilization is to reduce or minimize misery.

Overconsumption and overpopulation underlie every environmental problem we face today

Democracy cannot survive overpopulation.

Either we reduce the world's population voluntarily or nature will do this for us, but brutal. Instead of controlling the environment for the benefit of the population, perhaps it's time we controlled the population to allow the survival of the environment.

Conclusion: we believe that the above essay on overpopulation had provided helpful and useful information for your needs. The above essay on overpopulation will be helpful for students at exams and competitions, Aspirants of UPSC & SSC.